

Unit 12 – Reflection:

It is with a sense of accomplishment that I write my final reflection after a week of reviewing the entire module studies. This past unit was dedicated to the review of the last three units and my ePortfolio. Reflecting on this week, I cannot help but feel proud of my dedication, commitment, and efforts to complete this task. The last unit allowed me to realise my capacity for persistence and commitment throughout the previous three months. I have gained immense knowledge that will add significant value to my professional career, and I am grateful and happy for this. Throughout this learning journey, I have learned so much and gained a deeper understanding of various concepts that will help me become a more successful professional in the future. I am excited to apply this newfound knowledge to my work and help contribute to the growth of my professional career.
