

Unit 5 – Reflection:

Reflecting on the past week's events, I feel pretty invigorated and excited about everything I have learned. My focus has primarily been researching future security and risk management trends, and it has been a revelation to see how closely these subjects are related to my chosen field of work. I have come to appreciate how beneficial it is to learn about topics that will influence my professional career in the coming years. By staying informed and up-to-date, I can be better prepared to navigate the challenges and opportunities ahead and ultimately achieve tremendous success in my chosen career path.