

Unit 12 – Reflection:

Reflecting on this week's studies, I feel that the last module unit was one of the best we have covered. The topic of "Project Management and Managing Risk" is one that I have been eager to master, and I was delighted by the abundance of reading materials and recommended books shared with us. This wealth of resources allowed me to delve deeply into the subject and better prepare myself for what I hope to achieve.

While I found the self-test quiz activity to be a valuable learning tool, I believe it could be further enhanced. By including more questions that cover a comprehensive range of topics related to project management, this quiz could become an even more effective self-assessment tool. Despite missing two questions on my first attempt, I see the potential of this quiz to be used more frequently throughout the course, aiding in continuous learning and knowledge retention.

As the final module ends, I deliver all the artefacts and achievements developed throughout this module. Additionally, I must now focus on completing the final ePortfolio assessment, which requires me to summarise and reflect on my accomplishments and challenges. I also need to contemplate what improvements I must make to continue my journey towards obtaining my degree and achieving success.
