

Unit 8 – Reflection:

During Unit 8, there was a lot of activity in the discussion forum about a case study regarding the ethical responsibilities of a researcher and statistical programmer. This sparked a lively debate among my colleagues, and I explored various research articles on ethical responsibilities in our field. Also, I spent a significant amount of time thoroughly examining the outline of my research proposal, which has given me valuable insights into the areas I need to focus on for my upcoming Capstone project. Working on this research proposal has been enlightening, as it has helped me understand how everything is coming together.